

Amy K. Simmons Bio

Amy K. Simmons is the Chief Executive Officer of Avolatus Holdings LLP and Avolatus Publishing LLC, where she leads strategic growth across aviation publishing, training, and workforce development initiatives. Amy served six years of active duty in the United States Air Force as an Officer and Critical Care Nurse and was a member of the Critical Care Air Transport Team with multiple deployments in Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom. She earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Loyola University Chicago. After completing her military service, Amy entered a new season of life focused on family. She has been married to James Simmons for twenty-two years, and they are the parents of three boys. Her years in military medicine established the foundation of her leadership approach grounded in discipline, compassion, service, and calm decision making under pressure.

Amy serves as the majority ownership representative on the Board of Directors for the Avolatus Foundation, a 501(c)(3) organization focused on increasing access to aviation education, mentorship, scholarships, and professional pathways for future industry leaders. Her mission driven guidance supports the development of programs that strengthen workforce readiness and create lasting generational opportunity.